Local daycare demand outstrips supply

• Young families are finding it harder to place their youngsters

By ALISON ALOISIO

It may be because more young families are moving to the area. It may be more couples are having children. But one thing seems certain -- working parents are creating an increasing demand for quality daycare in the Bethel area.

When Nathalie Berry learned this spring that her daughter's babysitter would no longer be available to provide one-on-one care, she began looking for formal daycare.

"I have to work. I had to have daycare," she said. "Everyone said, 'There's no room. We'll have to put you on a waiting list.'"

By the law of supply and demand, it appeared the placement of Elise, age 1 1/2, was in the hands of the first available daycare.

Still, Berry had some qualities she was looking for in a provider.

"I looked at discipline, the number of children, the meals and activities," she said.

Berry was also concerned about possible high turnover rates in daycare employees. "I was looking for stability," she said.

Fortunately for Berry, a new daycare -- the Kids' Connection -- opened in Bethel in May. Satisfied her requirements would be met, Berry enrolled Elise.

Kathy Bennett of West Bethel stayed home with her daughter, Caitlin, until she was a year and a half old, because Kathy couldn't find a decent daycare.

"I think daycare is tight," she said.

Caitlin, now 2 1/2, has spent the past year at Bethel Day Care. Bennett is happy with the activities, schedule and responsibilities the child has received.

"I come from Boston, and you see a lot of fly-by-night daycare," she said. "You don't know what's out there."

Relatively speaking, Heidi James' 4 1/2 and 15-month-old children are daycare veterans. They've gone to Country Kids in Bethel since they were infants. James is happy with the arrangement. But she had some problems previously, as a Sunday River employee.

"It was the hardest when I was at Sunday River -- there was no weekend daycare," she said.

James said potential high turnover rates among daycare employees is not a great concern to her.

"People get burned out quickly. It doesn't bother me to see new faces and new blood come in. It's not necessarily any better to have people there for a long time. New energy is good," she said.

No one gets rich

As for cost, the full-time price for Bethel-area daycare ranges roughly from $55 to $85 a week, per child.

"The money is hard for everyone," said Virginia Kelly, who runs Children's Daycare in Bethel. "It's hard for the parents, but they still want the best care for their children," she said.

Most of the children she cares for are full-time, and have been with her at least two or three years.

She agrees that demand for daycare is up, and said it is also partly due to other daycares closing.

Meg Steven, who operates the Kids' Connection, said it's sometimes hard for parents to know what questions to ask in picking a daycare.

"People don't know what to look for -- they don't know if what they are seeing is good or bad. You're turning a little life over to these people, and you don't always know much about them," she said.

Steven said daycares check references on their employees, and also run a check with the state to

Dohrmann plans to open Montessori school this fall

• 11 of 12 spots are already filled

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Mahoosuc Montessori school will open its doors to a dozen area children this fall, applying Maria Montessori's 19th-century teaching methods to benefit the students of the 21st century.

The school will be operated by Debra Dohrmann and Cindy Kane-Olson of Bethel, and will be located in the basement of the West Parish Congregational Church.

Dohrmann has taught at Gould Academy and for the past two years has run a kindergarten-extension program in Bethel. She said she wanted to offer a more academically-oriented pre-school, for children ages 3-6.

BLOWN AWAY BY ART--Children tussle with an inflatable sculpture as it twists, turns and tumbles in the wind on the Bethel Common Saturday. The sculpture, by George York, was a colorful focal point of the seventh annual Bethel Art Fair. Despite threatening skies, occasional showers and the high winds, the fair drew a good crowd, pleasing both artists and organizers. "It was a great turnout," said organizer Rene McGrew. "The number of buyers was terrific -- better than last year." Thirty-three artists and craftspeople sold pieces ranging from Christmas stockings and birdhouses to fine individual watercolors, oils and acrylic paintings. "By the end of the day, everybody had sold something," McGrew said. "Over 100 pieces were sold." Local restaurants also benefited. "They did very well -- they sold out everything they brought," said McGrew. An added attraction this year was the Phil Rich Band, which played on the town gazebo. Music by Glenn Miller, Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington was featured. "The music really added a lot to the atmosphere," said McGrew. "We've already booked the same band for next year. Had the weather been better, we probably would have done twice the business." (Photo by Michael Daniels)

PUC brokers agreement between Water District and developer

• Work can now go ahead on bank/office building

By MICHAEL DANIELS

It took a marathon, six-hour meeting, but in the end Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill walked away from the table with much of what he wanted, and the single item he needed most: go-ahead to start construction of the Norway Savings Bank building.

Merrill met Wednesday with the trustees and superintendent of the Bethel Water District, and with two staff members of the Maine Public Utilities Commission.

The PUC staffers, an attorney and an engineer, had been called in by the Water District and developer in an attempt to settle a list of disagreements -- disagreements which were holding up construction of the bank building and threatening the progress of two other potential buildings.

PUC attorney Dan Sipes, who mediated the meeting, said later, "We can only mediate with people who are willing to be reasonable."

And reason and compromise did appear to be the order of the day, although Sipes was at points throughout the meeting to push for specific, mutually agreed upon commitments from the two parties.

At one point Sipes told the Water District officials: "I don't want to come back here for some technical stuff because (Merrill) didn't write you the perfect letter."

By the end of the session, agreement had been reached on nearly all the outstanding issues, and both sides could claim some victories.

For the Water District, the PUC supported its requirement that individual meters be installed for individual tenants -- turning down Merrill's request that all the buildings be allowed to have a single meter, with all charges billed to the developer.

The exact number of meters for a given building is now to be worked out by the developer and Water District on a case-by-case basis.

For Merrill, a key point was getting the Water District to agree to release a $20,000 escrow for work already completed in the project.

Of that amount, $19,000 goes back to the district to cover a 1994 commitment by the developers to underwrite part of the upgrade of the district's water supply.

With that commitment satisfied, the Water District officials agreed to write a letter to the Planning Board stating that there was adequate supply for the new building. The lack of such a letter was the only thing holding up the start of the bank building, Merrill said.

A compromise was reached on another sore spot: the dispute over billings for the time Water District superintendent Robert Saunders spent inspecting project work.

Arguing that Bethel Station was a district customer, Merrill had objected to also being billed directly for Saunders' time.

But John Head, chairman of the district trustees, said the time Saunders spent on Bethel Station was time taken from his other duties.

After examining the nature of the billings, Sipes sided with the district in concluding that it was appropriated.

BACK IN BUSINESS--The roadside spring on Route 26 is open again, thanks to the efforts of local officials and residents. It closed last fall after failing an MDOT water-quality test, but improvements to the outlet and a planned regular schedule of testing have allowed the spring to come back on line. Townspeople last week approved $500 to help with the maintenance and testing. Since this photo was taken, PVC pipe has been inserted in the original pipes as liner, and caps have been added to the end of each pipe. The water flows out through small holes in the caps. The arrangement ensures that the water completely fills the pipe, preventing outside material from getting inside, according to Jim Chandler of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. A "water-tasting party" is scheduled for Monday evening at 6 p.m. at the spring in celebration of its reopening. All are welcome. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Election officials see little problem here with voters abusing registration process

By ALISON ALOISIO

Voting in more than one town. Registering, voting -- and then unregistering immediately after coming out of the voting booth.

Are these voting practices commonplace enough to sway decisions on issues, such as those up for discussion at a number of special Town Meetings this summer?

Upton's 1995 Town Meeting, for instance, began with an argument over the residency of a person attempting to register to vote. The registration was allowed, and was followed shortly by the election of two town officials by margins of 22-21 and 23-20, respectively.

Upton is known for its hotly contested political issues, and some might wonder if that incident is typical.

But, said selectman Richard LeComte last week, "That was the only time I've ever seen it happen."

Maine's liberal voter registration law allows registration the same day as a vote. LeComte said he did question the law a few years ago.

"I told the Secretary of State's office, 'You have to be a resident for 180 days to get a hunting or fishing license, but 5,000 Moonies could come into town, pitch a tent, and vote. How come you can go vote an hour after you move into town? The answer is, voting is a right, hunting and fishing are a privilege," he said.

Questions have also been raised in Newry from time to time. With

Hearing tonight on MDOT signs proposal

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Two new ordinance proposals -- one covering directional signs, the second providing a street-naming-and-numbering system to support Enhanced 911 service -- will be the subject of a public hearing tonight (Wednesday) at the Crescent Park School.

The proposed directional-sign ordinance is intended to replace the system currently in use for business directional signs.

The current system is administered by the Maine Department of Transportation. The proposed system (Citizen, June 26) would be run by the town, and would replace the MDOT signs with a mix of welcome signs and directional kiosks.

The proposed street-naming-and-numbering ordinance is intended to help speed the arrival of emergency-service responders by eliminating addresses that are unclear or potentially confusing.

Amendments

The hearing will also review a number of proposed amendments to current ordinances.

Most of the amendments are of a minor nature and are intended to standardize various aspects of current ordinances, including the amendment and appeals procedures, the process by which volunteer committee members are appointed, and the deadline for commencing permitted work.

Editorial

Just for the fun of it, let's stand this post office business on its head. Like one of those rare and pricey inverted stamps.

Suppose that for many years the Bethel Post Office had been located on a site perched at the edge of the "traditional village." The post office had become a favorite meeting place for the exchange of pleasantries, small talk and gossip -- in large part because its location was so convenient. For those who made their visits by car, the site was easy to reach and afforded plenty of parking. For in-town walkers, it was only a salubrious stroll down Church, Elm or Mechanic streets.

And, just for the sake of visualization, let's locate that spot across from the northern end of Mechanic Street, not far from the site of the old Bethel train station.

As we might expect, most people in town were quite comfortable with the post office where it was, but there was a small problem -- the building itself was run down and did not have enough space for the ever-growing volume of business. And it would be woefully inadequate for the volume expected in the near future.

So the USPS decided to replace the building and put out a request for proposals.

Now suppose further that a large commercial development was going on near the post office, and the developer had his eye on the choice parcel of land upon which it sat. But a post office definitely did not fit into the developer's grand scheme of things -- he wanted it out of there.

And suppose that in order to ensure the post office was moved, said nefarious developer purchased a run-down commercial building in the most congested part of the village. And he proposed to the USPS that this old building be torn down and a new post office built on the spot.

Never mind that the parcel of land under the old building only minimally met the USPS requirements. And that any new post office there would have to be shoehorned in with a liberal lathering of shared parking and setback waivers.

Care to guess how the town would respond to such a scheme?

"Leave our post office where it is," the petitions would demand.

The new location would immediately be pronounced "much too dangerous." (It's curious how hypersensitive to safety issues some people -- even people generally opposed to regulations -- can become when it suits their purposes.)

But they'd certainly have a point in this case.

After all, within only a few car lengths you've got:

--two-way through traffic

--cars and trucks parked on both sides of the road

--cars and trucks turning into and out of Philbrook Street

--cars and trucks (often with lost and baffled, from-away drivers) turning into and out of the IGA

--cars and trucks pulling into and out of the Brooks Bros. lot (and we all know what fun it is to try to back out of parallel parking when you come out of the store only to find a van or capped pickup parked on you passenger's side -- unless you have a spotter, you just cross your fingers and creep).

And let's toss one more ingredient into this recipe for disaster. Whenever anything new is proposed hereabouts, the "what ifs" fly fast and loose, so let's mention an obvious one: What if SAD44 for some reason needed to once again use the Ethel Bisbee property as a school site?

OK, so we toss in:

--the possibility of school busses and children on foot and bikes.

We're pretty sure that any developer who proposed adding still more foot and pedestrian traffic into this mix would be greeted with howls of protest.

Of course, being a developer he would try to stress the alleged benefits of his plan, but we trust local skeptics would see right through such obviously self-serving rationalizations.

Developer: "This will really increase the number of people walking to the post office."

Skeptics: "Right, all the way from where they parked on Main Street."

Developer: "It will increase business for nearby stores and shops."

Skeptics: "Right, people will say: 'I have to check my mail, so I'll buy Mother a new frock.'"

In fact, the economic arguments against the move would be almost as compelling as the safety arguments.

Postal traffic would take up badly needed parking spaces, discouraging potential retail customers from driving into the village.

Tearing down the old building would not only displace one small business, it would also wipe out one of the few remaining areas of low-cost retail footage on Main Street.

In sum, the bottom-line effect of a post office on the new site would doubtless be to reduce the commercial diversity of the village, perhaps below the critical mass required for economic viability.

And certainly we would hear the familiar lament of "just one more burden on small businesses."

Oh, yes, and worries that the increased traffic on High Street would destroy the semi-residential character of that neighborhood.

The concensus against the plan would be overwhelming. (Some would surely see it as part of a deliberate move by the developer to weaken Main Street -- no doubt to make his own rental space more attractive.)

And out would come the inevitable "informal polls."

"No one I talked to is in favor of this," pronounces one seat-of-the-pants pollster.

"Ninety percent of the people of Bethel oppose this power play by the developer and the federal government," proclaims another.

And we're sure that with time, opponents of the plan would come up with many more reasons why it would be a terrible idea to relocate the post office to the middle of the village.

And you know what? They'd have a pretty convincing case.

ALAN BURNELL ON HIS RESIGNATION

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to answer your article of a couple of weeks ago, regarding my resignation from the staff at Gould Academy. That resignation had more to do with the break-up of my marriage with a woman who I have loved and adored for 26 years, than with the indictment handed down by the Cumberland County Grand Jury. It is in no way an admission of guilt on my part, but rather a recognition of the energy that is required to properly perform at a level satisfactory to both Gould Academy and my own standards. Having to cope with the terrible ordeal of a marriage break-up and now this indictment will require a tremendous amount of emotional energy that could not be devoted to performing my job. In the long run, I expect to be proven innocent, for I believe that one is still innocent until proven guilty, one of the great tenants on which this country was formatted. To my knowledge there has been no trial, no presentation of evidence, only a grand jury and an assistant district attorney's statement. I realize that sensationalism sells newspapers, which is why sleazy tablords sell so well. I can only hope that The Citizen does not slip in that direction. Thank you for your consideration.

SAD44 NOVA ASSESSMENT CUT $32,172

To the Editor:

Being a regional program, NOVA has its yearly budget voted upon seven times by the various school districts and individual towns that make up Vocational Region 9

This year when all of the total votes from those seven votes were tallied, the Community Education Budget passed; however, the Secondary Vocational Budget failed by 61 votes. On Thursday, July 11, there will be a budget hearing at 7 p.m. in the Telstar Lecture Hall to review the revised FY '97 Secondary Vocational Budget.

The revised budget will see a decrease to SAD44 of $32,172 over the FY '96 budget. This reduction is due to reductions within the budget and a new funding formula. The revision to the funding formula took over a year in the planning, with Superintendent Ronald Jenkins and board member Margaret Hand working diligently for the revisions.

On Wednesday, July 17 at 7 p.m., at Mountain Valley High School, there will be a regional meeting to vote on this revised NOVA budget. I urge all of the voters within SAD44 to attend this meeting and vote on the revised budget. It will mean a reduction in your SAD44 assessment from the FY '96 assessment.

PREPOSTEROUS FORESTRY BAN

To the Editor:

The new agreement that has been reached in the forest debate may leave many individuals confused as to what is going on. What people should keep in mind is that the Maine Green's Forestry Ban will appear on the ballot in November regardless of any action taken by the legislature, environmental groups or woodland owners. This preposterous measure must be defeated at that time, or it will become law and supersede any agreement or law that might be in effect. This would render all the hard work and effort that the major environmental groups and landowners put forth, that has resulted in a negotiated agreement that all parties can live with, to be null and void.

The agreement reached by this recent co-operative effort addresses virtually all of the problems, whether real or perceived, concerning forest practices in the Maine woods. It allows something for everyone, while minimizing the adverse effect on forest-related jobs. Since it would be applied statewide, there is still room to add or modify towards whatever concerns that the small woodlot owner may have. This is not a one size fits all agreement, there is room to solve whatever problems might arise.

I urge everyone to vote No on the Green Party's referendum in November. Only with the defeat of this measure can Maine once again move forward towards a stable economy.

REMEMBERING RUBY EMERY

To the Editor:

A valued fellow laborer in the vineyard of local and regional history died this week. Ruby Emery spent many of her later years reading old newspapers, searching the Oxford County Registry of Deeds, and collecting all kinds of local lore to include in her impressive collection of books and notebooks assembled with loving care. How she managed to accomplish so much in documenting the history of her beloved town of Woodstock is truly remarkable.

I have many pleasant memories of helping Ruby when she came to the Bethel Historical Society in search of information. It was always exciting to see someone so committed to learning everything she could about her topics of research at any given time. She was a longtime member of the Bethel Historical Society and a faithful reader of the society quarterly, The Bethel Courier, often commenting on something she saw there or providing additional information. She once told me that one of the pleasures of reading the Courier was that she could enjoy all this local history without doing any of the work.

As she thumbed through one of the registry books in South Paris that seemed bigger than she was, Ruby once told me that because of her age, she was going to give up her searches for historical information. I quickly responded telling her that I hoped she would keep going until she dropped. I think she did because she continued to be active until she died this week at age 87.

I will certainly miss seeing Ruby and hearing about all her research. She will always be an inspiration for all of us in the field of historical endeavor and her legacy to local history will be used and enjoyed for generations to come.

UNITED WAY VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

To the Editor:

The common denominator for the United Way and the US Marines is that both need a few good people (to be politically correct).

The United Way of Oxford County has vacancies on its board of directors and on its allocations committee. Members of the board of directors are generally responsible for the overall operations of the local United Way and particularly with its fund-raising campaigns. Members of the allocations committee are concerned with where the United Way donations go.

Serving the United Way is a 100-percent volunteer job and any reward comes from the knowledge that your help has contributed to the help of others who are in need. If you have moved into the Bethel area in the last few years and have previous experience with the United Way, raising your hand to volunteer would be very much appreciated.

For more information about volunteering with the United Way, please call me at 824-2094 or call Dennis Gray, executive director of the United Way of Oxford County, at 207-743-5833.

I would like to conclude by saying thanks to the many donors to the United Way from the Bethel area in general, SAD44 employees and Sunday River Ski Resort employees. Your donations have enabled the United Way to commit $50,000 to charitable human assistance in Oxford County for 1997.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

Despite the change in location due to threatening weather, more than 120 people managed to attend the fourth annual Community Picnic and Brass Band Concert at the historic Middle Intervale Meeting House. A wide variety of music from the 19th century to the present was featured in honor of Bethel's bicentennial observance this year. Participating in the ceremonies before the concert was the color guard of Mundt-Allen Post 81 American Legion and Bethel Historical Society Director Stanley R. Howe, who shared some reflections on the meaning of the Fourth of July in American history.

In the evening on July 4th, the society held its annual picnic. Since this year is the centennial observance of the building of the West Bethel Union Church, the picnic was held there. Due to the weather, it was moved inside. During the program portion of the meeting, Jane Hosterman, who is a member of a committee completing a history of the West Bethel Union Church, provided some of the highlights of the church's rich history from the days of A.S. Bean to the present. Following Mrs. Hosterman's presentation, a panel discussion, moderated by Society Director Stanley Howe, on the Fourth in Bethel's past was held with Phyllis Dock, Rosalind Chapman, Arlene Brown, and Rodney Howe as panelists. Stories of pranks and the use and abuse of fireworks were heard as well as some of the humor enjoyed on this special holiday.

Briefly

Ouelette appeal request received

NEWRY--A date of July 24 has been set for the Board of Appeals to hear David and Pauline Ouelette's appeal request regarding a permit to build on Riverbank Road. Board chairman David Schlieper said the couple is asking for a decision to accept or reject their application to build a house on a lot on the Bear River. The Planning Board had previously rejected the application, citing resource protection area restrictions preventing construction of a house containing more than a single housekeeping unit. The board considered the design to be multiple-unit. The hearing will take place at 7 p.m. at the Town Office.

Pew wants reimbursement for fees

ANDOVER--Selectmen have been asked to meet with Sid Pew's attorney to discuss possibly reimbursing Pew for legal costs incurred when former selectman Geri Gaudet filed charges against him. Gaudet filed charges of obstructing government administration following an incident at the Town Office February 2. Chairman Brian Mills said the board will seek legal advice from the District Attorney's office regarding whether the town is liable for the legal fees, since the board did not vote to file the complaint against Pew. Mills said the board did decide the town would reimburse Pew if it was determined Andover is liable.

Smoke alarms available to all

GREENWOOD--The Greenwood Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary is raising money so that anyone in town who wishes can have a smoke alarm. The auxiliary had previously raised funds to provide older citizens with alarms, but is now expanding the program to include all residents. Fire department volunteers are available to help with installation. For more information call Maggie Ring at 875-3215, Fire Chief Wayne Hakala at 527-2234 or the Greenwood Town Office at 875-2773.

Otten buys the rest of Sugarloaf

CARRABASSETT VALLEY--Leslie Otten, the owner of North America's largest ski resort company, is making his empire a little bigger. Otten, who already owns 51 percent of Sugarloaf/USA plans to buy the remaining 49 percent this summer. He said the purchase of the remainder of Sugarloaf stock was part of an agreement that was made when SKI Ltd. -- which Otten recently purchased -- bought part of Sugarloaf two years ago. When Otten closed a deal recently to buy SKI Ltd., he exercised an option allowing him to own Sugarloaf outright. Most of the remaining 49 percent will be sold by Warren Cook, president and general manager at Sugarloaf. Cook said he'll remain at Sugarloaf. Otten says his purchase wouldn't have any impact at the ski resort.

Voters OK money for spring, library

WOODSTOCK--Voters last week approved using a total of $9,500 from the town's tree growth penalties account for maintaining a roadside spring, drilling a well at the library, and acquiring land for a future addition to the library. Sixteen residents attended the special Town Meeting.

Town may tighten code enforcement

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen and Code Enforcement Officer John Gauthier last week discussed increasing permit fees and penalties for property owners who violate town ordinances. Gauthier said he has found numerous sites in violation of both state and local regulations governing structures from decks to complete buildings, as well as such activities as clear-cutting trees and shrubbery, placing sand and gravel near bodies of water and other landscaping projects that violate wetlands regulations. He said most violators are local, rather than out-of-state. Selectmen agreed to include a letter with this year's tax bills urging people to call the Town Office for information, and obtain all necessary permits before they start a project.

Hydrant options considered

ANDOVER--Fire chief Ken Dixon presented three options to selectmen last week for improving the efficiency of the town's water supply for fighting fires. Selectmen have been discussing the feasibility of withdrawing from the water district to try to avoid an increase in hydrant rental fees, which they estimated would go from $25,000 to $30,000 a year. The district is looking for a new source of water to comply with the federal Safe Drinking Water Act, and the additional cost will be reflected in higher hydrant rental fees. Dixon said the hydrant system is substandard. His options: stay with the system, and the expected higher fees; get an additional pumper/tanker with sufficient large-diameter hose, for a cost of about $225,000 over 10 years; "wait for the water district to file for bankruptcy and then take over the hydrant system," supplying it with water from the river with stationary pumps. The cost of the third option was estimated at $150,000 over 10 years.

Andover needs road commissioner

ANDOVER--Selectmen are accepting applications for road commissioner. The position needs to be filled until the annual Town Meeting in March. Chairman Brian Mills said there isn't enough time to get the position on the ballot for the Aug. 13 special Town Meeting because of posting rules. Wilbur Chenery resigned from the position last month. He died last week. The deadline for applications is the second week of August.

Fewer high school principals in Maine

AUGUSTA--Educators throughout the state say the long hours, stress and below-average salaries of high school principals are attracting fewer applicants every year. When only half a dozen people applied for the position at Cony High School, the district was forced to re-open the search. The applicant pool now totals 14 -- compared to the more than 35 that applied the last time the position was vacant, in 1991. "The problem is with the job and how demanding it has become, and the number of competing expectations for what principals should do, from parents, from superintendents, from teachers and from kids," said Gordon Donaldson, professor at the University of Maine College of Education. Maine high school principals last year earned an average of $53,837, comparing to an average range of $74,257 to $85,000 in the New England region.

Maine homeless numbers decline

AUGUSTA--Maine may be turning the corner in its attempt to combat homelessness, according to David Lakari, director of the Maine State Housing Authority. For the first time since MSHA began tracking the number of homeless in Maine the figures have shown a decrease. Over the first quarter of 1996 the state's homeless shelter network served slightly fewer homeless clients, and for slightly fewer nights, than over the first quarter of 1995.

Reasons to vote for Fidel

MIAMI, Fla.--Top 10 reasons given for electing Fidel Castro U.S. President:

10. With any luck, the shock might make Rush go mute.
9. Had nothing whatsoever to do with the S&L Crisis, the Iran-Contra scandal or EuroDisney.
8. 43 percent of Perot voters thinks he looks like Santa Claus.
7. After the release of "Look Who's Talking Too," offered political asylum to John Travolta.
6. Drab green fatigues guarantee the vital "Generation X" vote.
5. Secret polls say he does better in New Hampshire than Pete Wilson.
4. To help defeat obscure item 12b on the Contract With America: "Free pony rides for the rich."
3. So Newt Gingrich won't be lying when he says there are socialists in the White House.
2. Willing to arm wrestle Colin Powell; winner-take-all for the free world.

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

Recycling is a tough job, but somebody has got to do it. Recycling is a proven method of lowering the cost of solid waste disposal. The ecological benefits are well known. But recycling isn't the easiest habit to pick up, especially when the rules continue to evolve. What to recycle and how to prepare materials seem to inflict unnecessary pain. Just when you think you have got it all straightened out, you are told something has changed. I sympathize with this and hope that this article can reduce some of this frustration.

The top three money makers are aluminum, natural colored #2 plastic and office/computer paper. Colored #2 plastic is also tied for third place. The dynamics of making money recycling is market driven. The prices for recycled material as a "raw product" fluctuate greatly. Hence, the changing of the rules.

Bethel generates more corrugated cardboard (CC) than any other recycled material. CC is several layers thick with a trade mark zig-zaggy middle. Make sure it is dry and flat. Larger boxes have to be reduced to 4x4 feet in size. Please remove all plastic wrap, mailing labels and packing materials. Brown paper bags are allowed. Not allowed are foreign cardboard (which is yellow or gray in color) and pizza boxes.

Newspaper is heavy-weight number two. This includes all of the glossy supplements, phone and paperback books. Remove the covers from the books. This material is also collected in a separate bin. This material must be dry and left loose.

Don't bag or tie your newspaper. These could get caught up and damage the bailing equipment.

Number three is the magazines/junk mail classification. Finally, there is a diversion for this material from dumps and transfer stations. All junk mail and magazines, even the super glossy, can be recycled by loose collection. Even envelopes with windows are acceptable. Be careful to pull out any carbon paper, plastic inserts or wrappers.

To stop junk mail contact: Direct Marketing Association, PO Box 3861, New York, NY, 10163-3861. Just ask to be eliminated from mailings and the Mail Preference Service will stop junk mail from reaching you. Of course, you can contact any company directly.

(Glass, plastic and aluminum recyclables will be discussed next week.)

Tips from the COMMUNITY LAKES ASSN.

The annual meeting of the Community Lakes Association will be July 13, 1996 at the Bethel Inn Beach Club on Songo Pond (Route 5 about three miles south of Bethel). The meeting begins at 9 a.m., with coffee and muffins. At 9:30 a brief business meeting begins. Topics for the business meeting include: the results of 1995 lake testing, what to do about the disappointing results of the Indian Pond test, reopening the roadside spring in Bryant Pond and election of officers.

Our guest speaker will be Col. Bill Libby, assistant adjutant general of the Maine Army National Guard. The director of the Maine Emergency Management Agency since July 1995, he will speak on problems and issues involving dams. This is a timely topic, given the concerns and potential problems surrounding the dams in this area.

Annual dues ($10) may be paid at the meeting or sent to Ellie Andrews, 162 N. Main Street, Bryant Pond, ME 04219.

From the Bethel Police log:

Gas thief refuses to pay up

At 5:18 p.m. on July 5 the Route 2 Bethel Irving reported a theft of $2.20 worth of gas. The clerk said a man driving a brown Plymouth Horizon had prepaid for $10 in gas, and overpumped $2.20. When confronted about it, he refused to pay the difference and left the store. He headed east on Route 2, with two mountain bikes on his car. Police tried unsuccessfully to contact Sunday River security to be on the lookout for him.

Thursday, July 4

At 8:04 p.m. police observed a bonfire at a residence on the Bird Hill Road. The officer asked the subject if he had a burning permit. He said he did not get to the Town Office in time. He was told to put the fire out and wait until he could get a permit.

Friday, July 5

At 8:30 p.m. a Bethel resident reported her daughter had been taken by the girl's father, who was headed back to his residence. The mother said the father was intoxicated. Police put out a be-on-the-lookout on the subject and the vehicle. The woman said she believed that while she was at her neighbor's, the father had entered her apartment and broke her phone and rear picture window. She said he had left a foul message on her answering machine. The cordless phone had a broken antenna, and the rear window was smashed. The woman said she couldn't prove the subject did it, but he was the only one with a key to the apartment. Both individuals had been drinking during the day and had an argument prior to the subject leaving.

Sunday, July 6

At 1:10 a.m. a Bethel Inn employee overheard a domestic disturbance between a man and a woman at a condominium. An officer responded and spoke to both parties, who had been drinking. He determined there was no reason for arrest. The two were separated for the evening.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

COMPLEX DISCUSSIONS--The Bethel Station project has more sources of funding than any such project in the history of the state, according to Al Hodsdon, consulting engineer for the Bethel Water District. In the photo to the right, Hodsdon discusses cost allocation with Town Manager Madeleine Henley. Between the two (facing camera) is BWD trustee Jack Brooks. In the middle photo, BWD superintendent Robert Saunders makes a point during discussion of the amount of money billed to the developers for Saunders' services as an engineer. To his left are John Head, chairman of the BWD trustees, and trustee Arnie Brown. In the photo on the right, Don Sipes (standing), an attorney for the Maine Public Utilities Commission, listens as Bethel Station project manager Peter Rice describes the BWD bills to the developers, as Heinie Merrill looks on. Sipes mediated last week's meeting, which lasted six hours. (Photos by Michael Daniels)

propriate for the developers to pay for Saunders' hours.

But he went on to question the amount ($40 per hour) that the district was charging.

Saunders, a registered engineer, argued that the charge was "as low as anyone would charge for providing the services of a registered engineer."

"But that's not the standard, Bob," Sipes replied. "The basis is not what you could get in a competitive market. You're not in a competitive market -- you're a public utility."

Following a lengthy discussion of Saunders' salary and hours, both sides agreed to reduce the hourly rate by roughly a third. The reduction will be applied retroactively to outstanding bills.

In a similar compromise Merrill got an agreement from the Water District that he would not be charged further for engineering design and inspection work on Paradise, Church and Mason streets.

In pushing for this agreement, the PUC's Sipes noted that the upgrade of that part of the system had been in the works before the Bethel Station project was proposed, and it should not be the responsibility of the developer to pay for all of it.

The Water District trustees countered that the upgrade was undertaken at this time largely because of the increased water needs brought on by Bethel Station, and the town had been promised that Bethel Station infrastructure work would not cost the town any money.

Under the compromise brokered by Sipes, the developer will pay for work that has already been billed (less the adjustment on Saunders' hourly rate), but will then not be billed for any further work.

At one point late in the meeting, Merrill took out a check ledger and prepared to write a check for the revised amount owed to the Water District.

"I want to get this scab off my forehead," he said of the bill.

However, since only a rough figure could be calculated at the meeting, both sides agreed to hold off the payment until an exact balance could be determined.

As the meeting concluded, Sipes and PUC engineer Ray Hammond meticulously reiterated the details of all the points addressed during the session -- and they sought, and received, verbal agreements from both sides that these were in fact the terms that had been agreed upon.

In the past, without such formal minutes, the parties had frequently walked away from the table with conflicting versions of who had committed to what.

Following the meeting both sides expressed qualified satisfaction with the progress that had been made.

"There are still some details to be nailed down," said Head, "but I think we can work together from here out."

Merrill said: "We came away having accomplished a number of things that were important to the project."

And the minutes, he said, "will be a formal document we can use as a road map and reference point -- to prevent similar disagreements as we move ahead."

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

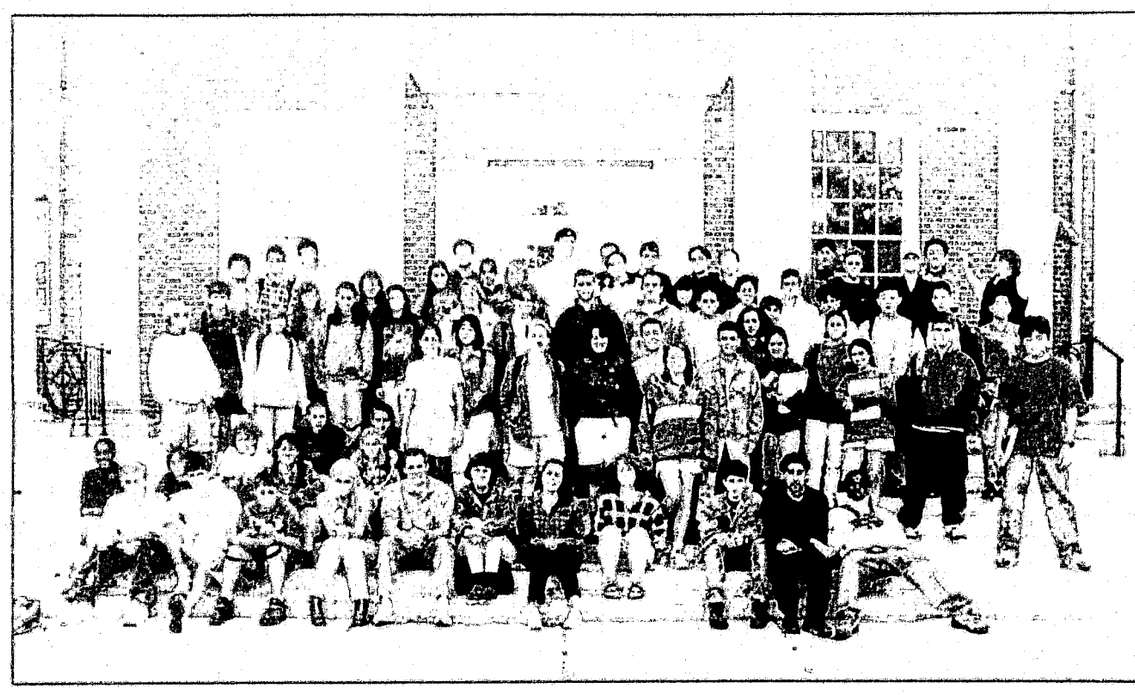
The Greenwood Historical Society met for the regular meeting Wednesday, July 3, with President Joan Kimball presiding. Eighteen members and one guest were present.

On Aug. 24, Thelma Holden will be present and have with her the camera that had belonged to her grandmother, the late Nettie Maxim.

It was voted at this meeting to have some painting done on the interior and exterior of the building.

Vanno Wansanen has donated to the society, maps that had been in the Richardson Hollow School in Greenwood, and Phyllis Lowe has donated some clippings of Greenwood happenings.

Following the meeting, Robert Kerrston talked on the history of spinning, and his wife Ginny gave a demonstration. Both were enjoyed very much. Refreshments were served. At the next meeting on Aug. 7 there will be a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. preceding the meeting.



GOULD ACADEMY SUMMER SCHOOL: Fifty-three students representing six states and six foreign countries are currently studying at Gould Academy Summer school, which commenced June 23. Boasting a 5-1 student/teacher ratio, the summer school offers accelerated students entering grades 7-12 the opportunity to complete a year's worth of material in one subject during the summer. Students spend four-and-a-half hours each day in class and study for several hours each night. Swimming trips, soccer, mountain biking, and ice-cream adventures to Breau's break up the intensive study. Students in the Young Scholars Program -- grades 7-9 -- complete their session on July 20, while the High School Program runs until Aug. 3. (Photo by Scott Jerome)

hundreds of out-of-state condominium owners (and taxpayers) at Sunday River, some wonder if they try to claim residency and vote in local elections.

But, said Town Clerk Sylvia Gray, "We run a tight ship here. They can fill out a voting card, but if I don't feel they are residents, I don't put them on the voting list."

Gray said she asks potential voters where they live, if they register their vehicles here, if they have a Maine driver's license and if they pay Maine income tax.

"You can tell what people's intentions are," she said.

She said some out-of-state residents have occasionally tried to register to vote after selling property here -- to avoid paying a Maine tax on the sale of property by out-of-staters.

Bethel ballot clerk Mary Brown said she does not believe many nonresidents try to vote in Bethel elections. "I don't see it as an issue," she said.

The experience of the Secretary of State's office is consistent with the Bethel-area officials' observations.

Deputy Secretary of State Gary Cooper said the only way his office has of knowing of violations is if someone complains -- and that rarely happens.

"From our perspective, it doesn't seem to be a problem," he said. "In the six years I've been here, I don't know of any case where the Attorney General's office has prosecuted anyone."

Cooper said there were charges last fall after the gay rights referendum vote that people were bussed in from out-of-state to vote.

But, he said, there was never any evidence presented to support that claim.

While ineligible voting is apparently not a major problem, there have been some other Bethel election incidents Brown finds interesting.

Some local people who usually don't vote will appear occasionally to register and vote on an issue or for a particular person, she said.

"I have a sense a lot of non-voters will register (on the day of an election), vote, and then have their names taken off. They can register and unregister right there," she said.

Brown said she has heard of instances of people being told who to vote for by their employer.

"We also have a lot of write-ins -- people who might not usually be considered for candidacy," she said.

In Woodstock, Vern Maxfield's biggest challenge is the increased load of paperwork associated with recent changes in the voter registration law.

He said his problem is having to keep people who have moved away on the voting rolls.

"Of the thousand names registered, at least 200 have moved," he said.

Until recently, town officials could remove those names if they knew the people had left town. But the law now requires the town to notify people in writing -- and wait for a response to verify it's all right to take them off the list.

That makes one more task for towns operating under an ever-increasing load of paperwork.

"I don't have time to write. But the list has to be purged before the '98 election," Maxfield said. "In Windham, they've hired a part-time person just to handle voter registration."

Montessori

The Montessori approach to education is described in an information sheet on Mahoosuc Montessori:

"Almost 100 years ago Maria Montessori, Italy's first female physician, took upon herself the daunting task of educating the underprivileged children of 19th-century Rome. Her remarkable success sparked an international scholastic movement that has inspired thousands of schools in over 30 countries worldwide.

The methods she developed thorugh years of careful observation were simple, yet insightful. Young people have a uniquely heightened capacity for learning, and by providing them with an enriched environment during these "absorbent mind" years, they are more likely to achieve their full academic potential."

Dohrmann said the program offers a hands-on approach. In math, for instance, wooden rods divided into sections help young children learn number concepts by seeing that a rod of six sections is bigger than one of four.

"It's not just saying that six is bigger than four -- it has more meaning," she said.

Subject areas are roughly represented by physical learning areas in the classroom, although the relationship among them is explored, too.

The Montessori method also emphasizes responsibility and self-control among the children.

While Dohrmann's own experience is in the area of language arts, Kane-Olson will bring expertise in such areas as crafts, cooking and physical activities, Dohrmann said.

Dohrmann is spending the month of July in Boston, learning the details of Montessori education.

She said 11 of the 12 slots at the school are filled, and she is already accepting applications for next year.

The school's initial format will include classes for kindergarten and one-year-away-from-kindergarten children, but will eventually become a three-year program.

Daycare

determine if they have a criminal record.

She suggests parents pay attention to the greeting they and their children get at a potential daycare, as well as the cleanliness, teacher/child ratio, and how their child might fit personally into the surroundings.

Steven said it's typical for daycares to have a high employee turnover rate. Nationwide, she said, employees "are in and out in less than a year -- that's a standard. Usually, there's not enough money, so they leave.

"You have to do this because you like it," she said. "You're not going to make a lot of money."

Summering in Maine

By MIKE BROWN

It's a common concern, among those who promote such things, that Maine the vacationland is really feast or famine.

What sets the Maine play apart from the nation is its seasonal beauty by a cast of geography and climate. There is nothing finer than a summer day in Maine. But come winter, Maine can be like a frozen thumb sticking out of America's North Atlantic mitten.

Maine's brumal period has its attractions in the mountains for skiing and, if there be accommodating snow, the ubiquitous armada of snowmobiles.

The summer feast is the real problem because Maine just cannot handle the hoards of vacationers all at once. The interstate system is fine if one is traveling to Canada, but the state over the years has sadly neglected its secondary roads, which in places are really historic game trails. Try putting thousands of vehicles a day on Maine's coastal peninsular roads which are paved-over moose migration trails and you get the logistical idea.

Maine has beans for public transportation and so cars, vans, trailers, trucks and bicycles all must share a piece of the narrow tarry. Still, like lemmings they come in summers to explore but not drive off the rocky cliffs of the Maine coast. But we do have the most confusing U-turns of any state in the country.

Once our summer visitors decide to light for the day, they find a Maine trying to accommodate a flood with a bucket. The numbers of lodging facilities are improving, but slowly. Entrepreneurs and capital investors are leery about investing and returns on a three- or four-month business.

The federal national park system in Maine, mostly Acadia, is stressed. The state parks require reservations in many places and applications must be filed months ahead.

Maine's unique geography, sculptured several thousand years ago by a mile-high chunk of ice, created hundreds of islands, some inhabited but mostly not. The live-aboard islands are served by state ferries and Maine state government has never figured out an equitable way to run its ferry service. Canada decided years ago to run free ferries and include that cost in provincial highway budgets.

Free island ferries are discussed from time to time for Maine, but the most negativism comes form the island folks themselves. The truth is that Maine island citizens would rather not have visitors. It cockeyes their unique existence, they say. Besides, island ferryboats are considered parents and they don't need strangers overloading the family canoe.

Our visitors quickly learn that there are, indeed, two Maines. One visitor said he drove from Boston to Maine and didn't realize he was in Maine until he ran into Paul Bunyan at Bangor. And even Paul was fiberglass.

It was inevitable that Boston sprawl would invade southern Maine, with the assistance of New Hampshire's mighty girth turnpike funneling folks across the Piscataqua Bridge (after a stop at the Granite State's no sales tax, cheapo booze store).

But if southern Maine has its tacky, and some visitors like Maine tacky, the northern half of Maine seems to stay in character. One annual visitor to Maine said he loved to drive around rural Maine and find somebody beside the road and ask directions to any place. Half the time he got that old chestnut that "ya' can't get th'ar from he-ay,' which made his whole vacation.

But he got some responses that lasted him all year. He stopped beside a very steep hill that had been recently ploughed. He spoke to the farmer who was standing admiring his field and asked him how it was possible to plough such a steep hill.

"I did it with a pair of horses," he replied, "but it was so steep in some places that one of the horses had to ride on top of the other."

If visitors to Maine can't find a place in Maine to their liking, they just have to drive down the road a couple of miles.

MDOT signs

A further proposed revision, to the sign ordinance, would insert the language "sandwich board, balloon or similar sign" to the definition of a promotional sale sign.

A second change to the sign ordinance modifies the definition of the time promotional signs can be kept up: from the current 14 days in a six-month period, to seven days in a 90-day period.

Proposed changes to the subdivision ordinance include the addition of language calling for street naming and numbering to be consistent with the proposed Enhanced-911 changes.

Tonight's public hearing is being held jointly by the Board of Selectmen and Planning Board. It will begin at 6 p.m.

The special Town Meeting to consider the proposed changes has been scheduled for Monday, July 22.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

This unit of the American Legion Auxiliary held the last meeting of the season on June 27, to report on the recent Department convention held at Sunday River and to make some plans for the near future activities.

Twelve members attended all or part of the convention sessions. Charter member Fannie Cummings took part in the installation of the new department officers on Sunday, June 22. The work and efforts of the members were recognized with several awards. One was a department membership citation and pin for attaining 100-percent membership compared to the previous year. In fact, they exceeded the previous membership by 15, the fourth consecutive year of an all-time high in membership.

Two certificates were received for donations to the Special Olympics, another was for the formation of an active Junior Unit. Ada Cummings was recognized with a certificate for the history of the unit for 1995-96, which she compiled, and Olive Risko received one for the best public relations program and press book. Thanks to the local newspapers, Sun-Journal/Sunday, The Bethel Citizen and Norway Advertiser-Democrat for printing our articles and pictures and to the local cable Channel IV for carrying our messages.

Mary Lyon invites all members to her home on North Pond for a swim and meal on July 14. She will furnish drinks and desserts, others to bring whatever they wish for a potluck meal.

July 23 is the date for the birthday party at the Western Maine Veterans Home in South Paris. The Junior Auxiliary, with the assistance of senior members, will be doing this. There will be gifts for those residents with July birthdays. Participants are advised to be at the home by 1:30 p.m. to prepare for the party at 2 p.m.

NEW BETHEL INN BIKE CENTER

The Bethel Inn & Country Club has recently opened its own bike center under the direction of Steve Jackson. Jackson has been a member of the inn's staff since Nov. 1995, when he came aboard as the resort's cross-country skiing director. The center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and features Trek mountain bike rentals, sales and service. The resort's cross-country trails provide an opportunity to ride in a relatively level, traffic-free area. "It is a great way for the recreational rider to get their feet wet without having to come down the side of a mountain." said Jackson. Jackson will also be offering riding clinics and guided tours throughout the summer. For more information contact the Bethel Inn at 824-2175.

Grants available for community projects

The Western Mountains Fund of the Maine Community Foundation invites nonprofit organizations serving the Western Mountain region of Maine to submit proposals for support of community projects in 1996. The application deadline for the third quarterly grant-making cycle is July 15 and the Board of Directors will meet in September to make decisions about applications from the July cycle. The foundation also will accept proposals on Oct. 1. MCF seeks proposals for grants in the range of $500 to $5,000 that apply community strengths to help address some of the region's needs.

Applicants are encouraged to submit proposals which actively involve constituents in the project's design and implementation, strengthen local leadership, are preventive in nature, and bring together existing resources in new or expanded ways. Matching grants and collaborative projects will receive high priority. The Maine Community Foundation prefers supporting demonstration projects rather than request for ongoing support, in the belief that a small successful project can inspire other communities to approach old problems creatively.

Projects which received funding from the fund in the recent past include the Western Mountains Alliance's regional heritage program which encourages greater awareness and appreciation of cultural, historical and natural resources in the Western Mountain region and an expanded arts program at the W.G. Mallett School which showcases local community performing groups and encourages children to be involved with the performing arts.

The Western Mountains Fund was established in 1992 as a component fund of the Maine Community Foundation to benefit nonprofit organizations in the Western Mountain region of Maine and is served by an advisory committee of local citizens. The advisers meet regularly to discuss community problems and make recommendations on applications from organizations working to address these issues. Contact Ann Tartre, program officer at MCF (667-9735) for more information

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest member, Joe H. Cook, Builder, Kennebunkport, phone 207-967-5201.

The chamber wishes to thank everyone who had anything to do with the success of the 7th Annual Bethel Art Fair. First place went to John Bickford, Oquassuc; Second place went to Christine Knight-Coombs, Bath; and Third place went to Irene Duplissis, Wales.

All artists and crafters did well! It was a great event.

The Seventh Annual McDonald's/Jordan's Bethel Area Chamber Golf Classic is scheduled for Monday, July 15, at the Bethel Inn & Country Club. We still have a few team spaces left. Contact the chamber office at 824-2282 before Friday if you are interested in playing.

We have a silent auction that will be going on all day under a tent by the Bethel Inn tennis courts. Anyone can come and bid on these items -- jewelry, dinner gift certificates, local items, vacation packages and more. The auction will start at noon and go all day until 6:30 p.m..

BRIDGTON FIRE AUCTION

The North Bridgton Fire Association Auction will be Saturday, July 27, at 9:30 a.m. at the fire station on Route 37 in North Bridgton.

Items are needed for the auction and volunteers will pick them up if they're in good condition. Please call Ronald Holden Sr. at 647-2127 or Wayne Allen at 647-2481.

ROBIN GILBERT APOINTED TO PEDIATRIC COMMITTEE

Mr. and Mrs. William Bassett of Derby, Vt., visited Rodney and Geraldine Howe this past week. Mrs. Bassett, (formerly Shirley Russell), was seeking information regarding her Abraham Russell ancestry.

Adam Brown and Danna and Kate Nickerson enjoyed a lobster feast as guests of Kurt and Tammy Brown in Windham on July 4.

Athena G. Brown, George, Danna and Kate Nickerson were in North Scituate and Foster, R.I., June 28 through 30, where they visited the Miss Greenleafs and Robert Greenleaf. They all attended the wedding of Stephen and Joanne Greenleaf.

Cynthia Nickerson is spending a few days visiting her daughter Linda MacDermand and family in Hampton, N.H.

The color guard of the American Legion Meads-Allen Post 81 presented the colors at the opening of a performance by the Portland Brass Quintet, which was held at the Mid-Maine Chorale Meeting House on Saturday, June 29.

The quintet played a full range of classics from the nineteenth to the twentieth centuries, including "Stars and Stripes." Approximately 150 people enjoyed the musical event.

Ralph and Ronald Stevens, Barbara and Dale Stevens, Alvin, Alice and Lois Stevens spent the weekend in Portland.

Eric Gardner of Nashville, Tenn., visited with his mother, Linda Gardner. While he was in town he treated Scott and family and Chris to dinner at Jungle Jim's in Auburn. Ashley and Chelsea Gardner visited their grandmother, Linda Gardner.

Eric had a welcome-home dinner and family gathering for Eric, Linda and Scott Gardner's had a family barbecue.

Eric returned home to Nashville in time to attend Loretta Lynn's concert.

On Saturday, July 6, Lindley and Pauline Wieden and Earlon and Mary Paine attended a lovely wedding ceremony for Amy Paine and Jeffrey Collins at North Church Congregational in Portsmouth, N.H. A grand reception followed at the York Harbor Inn. They left for a honeymoon trip to Paris, France, and other points of interest.

Amy is the daughter of Richard and Cynthia Wieden Paine of Scarborough. She is the granddaughter of the Wiedens and Paines of Bethel. Jeffrey is the son of Camilla and William Collins of New Jersey.

Andover

Students currently enrolled in college or post-secondary programs are reminded of the Aug. 1 deadline for the Andover Educational Fund and Cutting Endowment Scholarships. Please call or contact Sharon Hutchins at 392-4351 for application forms or more information.

The Olde Home Days weekend celebration is less than a month away. This year's theme is based upon the Andover Fair. There will be a new photo contest this year. There will be three age levels: 12 and under, Teens, and Adults. Pictures do not need to be framed, and may be of any size. Entries must be dropped off for display at the Library on Thursday, Aug. 1, before 4 p.m. Entry forms for the Beautiful Garden Contest are available at local businesses. Judging will be held on Friday, Aug. 2. The Mahoosuc Music Makers, sponsored by the Mahoosuc Arts Council of Bethel, will play on Saturday at 11:30 at the fire station. Enjoy the firemen's barbecue chicken during the concert. Tickets for tours of the Merrill Homestead are available at the town office. There are a limited number of tickets to be sold, get yours early to be assured of a tour. Once again Judy Hall has donated a beautiful painting to be raffled during the Art Show on Saturday. Tickets for the raffle drawing are available locally, the numbered buttons and tee-shirts are also now available at local businesses. The next meeting of the Olde Home Days committee will be held on July 23 at 7 p.m. at the home of Trudy Akers. Those to be involved with the weekend events and those wishing to volunteer some free time to help with the activities are invited to attend this final wrap-up meeting.

On May 19, John and Carol Emery traveled to Springfield, Mass., to attend Carol's graduation from Springfield College. She received her Master's of Science degree in human services with a concentration in community psychology. Carol received a 4.0 her final semester, graduating with a 3.84 overall average.

Fran and Wayne Kerchner and guests Dennis and Laverne Sheehan, also of Wellesley, Mass., were in town celebrating the Fourth of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell White of Richmond, Va., have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Edna White, and other relatives while in the area this past week.

George Barlow left on July 7 to return to his home in Bangkok, Thailand, after spending three weeks visiting with his mother, Vivian Barlow, and other family and friends. His mother made the trip to Thailand alone in 1993 at the age of 84.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leach of Arthurette, New Brunswick were in town in June to help her brother, George Crooker, celebrate his 90th birthday. Mr. Crooker returned to Canada with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Ganung of Torrington, Conn., are spending the week at Roxbury Pond. Mrs. Ganung, Leigh, is the daughter of former Andover residents, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Michaud of Skowhegan.

Get well wishes to Gary William-son who was recently hospitalized.

Sympathy is extended to the Chenery family for the death of Wilbur. Mr. Chenery served as road commissioner and was a town employee for over 20 years.

Upton

Hello! Fourth of July weekend was wet, but wonderful. Campers and vacationers didn't melt in the rain. I heard the Rumford fireworks were great. Also, the parade in Errol was fun-filled with fire engines, floats, horns, candy and more. The weekend went out with a sunny bang.

Who is Toneloaf? I didn't write it, and if anybody knows who that is, or what column that blip belonged in, I'm curious.

Jerry and I plan to go to the Iron Horse for a dinner out.

The Strattons on Mill Road had a great visit in Upton. Barbara cooks a great Pennsylvania sausage. Thanks. Eric was too busy fishing to make his famous lasagna. Nice to see all our summer residents again.

North Newry

"Great God! We thank Thee for this home, This bounteous birthland of the free, Where wanderers from afar may come, And breath the air of liberty; Still may her flowers untrampled spring, Her harvests wave, her cities rise, And yet, till time shall fold her wings, Remain earth's loveliest paradise."

This is a follow-up on the Bachelder family get-together of June 23. Some went back home, and some stayed around doing some visiting. George Romano went to Rhode Island to see his sisters on Thursday, June 27. Ras, Karlene, Don, wife Christine and Brett, Claire and George, all went to Stratton to visit with Ras' father Aaron Bachelder. Then on Saturday, they all went to Cumberland to see Michelle, Paul Josephson and son Nikolaus. Now they are all gone home to California and Georgia respectively and North Newry. Bye Bye!

LOVEJOYS CELEBRATE 50TH--Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Lovejoy of Traverse City, Mich., were tendered a surprise 50th wedding anniversary party on June 30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Lovejoy in West Bethel. Alfred Lovejoy of West Bethel married Stella Yazek of Dearborn, Mich., on April 29, 1946 in Dearborn, Mich. For many years they spent their two vacations in West Bethel with Fred and Eleanor Lovejoy. Now they come once a year and spend their winters in Matlacha, Fla. About 40 friends and family members attended the party. They came from Bangor, Rumford, Norway, Harrison, Locke Mills, Bethel, Bar Mills and West Bethel. Special flower arrangement, corsage, and boutoniere were made by Rebecca West, grandniece. Refreshments were provided by friends and family. The gold table cloth, gold vase with artificial gold roses were provided by Mrs. Alanson Cummings, They were mementos from her 50th wedding anniversary in 1970. The cake was made by Sally Smith. Musical entertainment was provided by Cleve Lovejoy and his two daughters.

Happy 56th Wedding Anniversary to Norman and Louise Tetley on July 6. In this day and age, when a marriage lasts only a few years, we congratulate them on a specially well matched pair. "Compromise" must have been the key.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson of the Newry Bowling Gang went to the Oxford Lanes one day last week. Jim Anderson was a guest. On the overall scores, Gil was high on the triples beating Karlene by only five pins. But Karlene was high on the singles, beating Gil by only four pins, 109 to 105.

Owen and Sue Wight and Bill and Sylvia Wight had a July 4 picnic at Bill Wight's pole barn. Those attending were: Billy, Gail, Samantha and Kaitlin Brooke from Whitefield; Scott Wight and Gil Stack from New York; Steve and Marlene Wight from Old Town; David Wight of Milford; Bill, Gretchen, Melissa, Julie Strauss from Waterford; Michael Wight, George and Sandra Wight of Bethel; Larry Enman of Errol; Terri and Staci Littlehale from West Paris and from Newry, Owen and Sue Wight; Bill and Sylvia Wight; Susie Bowie; Randy, Audrey and Amber Brooke; Brad, Brenda, Katie, Kurt and Kevin Wight; Gary, Gail, Jessie and Justin Wight and John and Nancy Wight.

Quote of the week: " So, wanna-be-president Dole says tobacco is not addictive? Socks in the White House says, 'I tried catnip once, but I didn't inhale.'"

It was a grand week!

Recently, we have talked a lot about the weather and why not, we have had a lot of weather to talk about. It has been our arresting feature, almost every day the clouds hung low, brushing the tops of the trees and hiding the hills. We saw them only through a veil of falling rain.

Usually we enjoy days of sunshine with a bit of leisure, before the rush of haying season. This year it became summer overnight with the warm west wind playing in the poplars, shimmering and silvering at the edge of the pond and polishing everything to a diamond brilliance.

At the farm now, there is an endless succession of tasks on through every day and the deadline seems to be immediate. Over the curving shoulders of the land, the machines move. How different from the time that horses once plodded on, or stood there rippling their skin in the light stir of air, tossing their heads, bodies steaming gently and their harnesses making a creaking or jingling sound.

Balls of hay dot the fields and windows curve away like rollers with here and there warm gray boulders rise in the sun.

The fragrance of the new mown grass changes at almost every step.

Light glistens along the moistly shinning skin of the workers.

Everywhere the barn swallows circle around with sunlight flashing on their backs, their forked tails brushing and combing, chattering all the time.

One cannot cheat the earth, when it comes to farming. The land must be tended religiously

At night when chores end and a golden path across the water to the door-step, the sky above is clear and filled with stars, one forgets his labor of the day and thinks how wonderful it is to live in the country where routine things of nature and work bring a time of rest.

One goes to sleep with outside music, the voices of the tree toads, the thrushes, the white throated sparrows and others out there, solitary amongst a thousand shadows

It is always nice to have Ann at home, as she is now. She has finished her year's work for the state. She visited many schools all over Maine and will return to Telstar this fall. I'm very pleased to have her back on Farm Hill

David was at the farm on Sunday. We missed Sally and Mary, but Sally's father and mother were very ill and she had to care for them.

Rena Curtis is in Spencer, Ohio to attend the wedding of her granddaughter, Lisa Curtis and Don Hawkins on July 6. Several other members of her family also went. Lisa is the daughter of Kenneth and Helen Curtis.

I have had another battle with the gray squirrels and of course they always win. This time one of them gnawed off the rope that held the feeders. They walked it many times before this. Now they have no seeds, but the birds do. Their feeder is at the top of a metal post where they can't go. I keep it oiled.

Songo Pond

by
Alice Kimball

The annual business meeting of the Songo Cemetery Association was held here last Sunday with nine members attending. After serving several years as president, Earlon Keniston declined the position and David Salway offered to take his place. That left the vice president's seat lacking and Donna Folsom was elected to fill the position. Mrs. Bonnie Arsenault Van Dum was elected to the board of directors. Old and new business was discussed and it was motioned to adjourn.

On their way home to Old Orchard Beach, Brandon and Tara Salway were callers here on Tuesday after a weekend in Montreal.

A very quiet Fourth around the pond this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cummings and children spent the last week at the former Barker cottage.

The Harry Prebles were at their cottage over the holiday.

Rodney Wentzell of Cape Cod and South Carolina, his son Stephen and children, Emily and Joshua of Wilmington, Del., are spending this week at the Wentzell cottage with his mother and family.

Spending the Fourth of July here were Bernie and Kassi Gatchell and daughter Kaitlyn of Portland; Brandon and Tara Salway from Old Orchard Beach. The guys did some golfing, Kaity and Norma tried catching pollywogs and we all enjoyed a cookout, eating inside as the showers took over again.

Mind your tongue, its in a wet place and could slip. Reminisce.

July 15 to 19 there will be a five day club sponsored by Child Evangelism Fellowship at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church from 9:30 to 11 a.m. for all school-age children.

The quarterly business meeting of the Baptist Church will be July 16.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, July 11, for a regular meeting at the Grange hall. Dinner will be put on by the grange and a game party in the afternoon. Please bring an item for the game prizes.

Franklin Grange met on Monday, July 1, for a regular meeting and patriotic program. Eighteen members attended. Wayne Sherman will install West Paris and Franklin Granges in Sept. They voted to hold a variety show the second Friday of August. A patriotic program was held with everyone taking part. Opening song by all; reading, Bertha Benoit; quiz over reading; song, "You're a Grand Old Flag"; quiz over song; song, "Stars and Stripes Forever"; all veterans told about the war they served in; poem by Bertha; Johnny Howe told the price he paid for a new Model-T Ford and the price people pay for them now; closing thought; closing song. Next meeting is Ladies Night on July 15, with a 6:30 p.m. salad and cold cuts supper

Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover moved to Maine on Tuesday. Ken and Jim Hoyt helped them move from N.Y.

Sympathy is extended to Evelyn Bean in the death of her brother, Ray Thurston, and to the family of Ruby Emery in her death.

Every Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. and Thursdays at 7 p.m. is Bryant Pond Hour on Channel IV T.V.

The Historical Society encourages you to study our cultural heritage. Art, literature, music, religion and of course history are all fascinating. There is so much to learn. Curator Larry Billings has given a piece of ruby glass to the society, he has also given a large collection of jewelry along with a jewelry box. President Mary Billings has announced the committees for History Day on August 3. Mary is general chairman of the event. Kathleen Bean and Annella Burnham will handle refreshments. Helvi Cary, Paul Billings and Alice Hoyt will organize craft displays and demonstrations. Ruth Cox, Louisa Noyes and Elena Noyes will tend the flea market. Olive Risko, Ray Burnham and Evelyn Bean will serve as guides in the museum. Kathleen McAllister is in charge of sales. The men of the society will help with set-up and Ray Burnham will supervise clean-up.

Well, we sure have gotten our fair share of hot weather lately, right on the heels of some very cool days. I like this mix of temperatures a lot more than a constant barrage of hot days.

I sure do have a lot of news this week. First of all, Pinhook would like to welcome Christine and Ken Lindsey. On Monday, they officially purchased the home of the late Lee and Emma Billings. It is really nice to know that my grandparents' house will be occupied by members of the family, and I am sure that Lee and Emma would be very happy with the new owners. Chris is the daughter of Rob and Norma Davis.

I would also like to extend a welcome to Roseanne Broomhall and her son, Caroll Verrill, who have recently moved into their new home.

With the help of several friends and family members, Rob and Norma were able to get 500 bales of hay into their barn this week. On Saturday, Rob celebrated his birthday with his children and some of the grandchildren. He also went to the eye doctor's last week and is scheduled to go again tomorrow. Norma reports that her geese are now making their home at the Deer Crossing farm, and she has been up to see them a couple of times already.

Also celebrating a birthday this week was Malcom Billings. My mom took him out to eat at Bonanza, along with Jason, Bridget, Linda Tyler and myself. We had a nice time and enjoyed visiting with Linda.

Sue Silver reports that Joelle and Erroll have been swimming at Lake Christopher almost every day this week. Bridget Billings babysat for the kids on Monday night and made it through an appointment at the dentist's office today. I helped her clean her room this week and she is just about done.

Mom and I went to Norway tonight and saw my cousin Mary Gray at Ames, where she has been working for a while now.

Our mailbox has been filled with letters from my friends this week. Even though I am looking forward to going back to school, the summer is going by too quickly.

That's it from North Woodstock this week.

Don't forget the Willing Workers meeting on Monday, July 15, at 7 p.m. at the Union Church.

Marta and Nick Clements have had a houseful lately. Their son, David and wife Audrey Lazenby and granddaughter, Carolyn, from Birmingham, Ala., spent a week visiting them. Also, son Bruce, wife Cindy and granddaughter Sarah from Weare, N.H., spent a long weekend. Another son, Eric and friend Yvette Laro spent some time visiting.

Nick and Marta Clements family went to Belfast and Searsport to visit Marta's mother, Charlotte Thompson. A baby shower was held in Searsport for Audrey Lazenby who is expecting in August. Before taking David and family back to the airport, they all stopped at Gray Animal Farm and had a picnic and enjoyed the animals.

Those on the honor roll this term, from the South Woodstock area, from Telstar High School are: Elaine Brochu, Becky Chandler, Siiri Cressey, Cora Gallagher, Jeff Chandler, Jeremy Curly, Staci Littlehale and Emily Phillips. From Telstar Middle School: Melanie Ryerson, Matt Moore and Lacy Phillips. From Woodstock Elementary School: Ryan Hathaway, Megan Mack, Casey Ryerson, Kristina Koskela, Daniel Morgan, Darcy Tyler and Sheri Curley. I'm proud that so many from this area made the honor roll. Congratulations!

Our granddaughter, Jessie Hart, has been staying with us for most of this week while her mother has gone camping at the ocean.

Richard Wing had visits from both his children, Rick Wing and Kellie Hart, who came to help celebrate his birthday.

I hope everyone made use of their American flag this Fourth of July, and had a nice and happy holiday. I went shopping in Oxford, how times change.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that a woman stops telling her age as soon as it starts telling on her."

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society has given a large collection of jewelry and a box for it with the Mona Lisa on the cover. Mr. Billings has also given a piece of ruby glass to the society. The society thanks other organizations for the notices they send the Woodstock Society about their activities. They like to keep informed. Kathleen McAllister and Olive Risko watched the museum recently.

West Paris

by
Miriam Inman

Vernon and Walter Inman spent last week at Nesowadnchunk Wilderness Campground. Kim, Vern, Walter Jr. and I joined them on Tuesday night. All returned home on Saturday.

The Senior Citizens enjoyed going to the D.E.W. Animal Kingdom on Tuesday. The guide led us to see the various animals, which was very interesting. The group had lunch at the original Weathervane Restaurant in Readfield.

West Paris Historical Society will have their picnic and meeting on North Pond, at the cottage of Beverly Glines and Betty Ring, on Monday, July 15.

On Wednesday, July 17, the annual meeting of the First Universalist Church will be at the Goodwill Hall at 7 p.m. It will be a very important meeting at which time reports of the various organizations will be heard, and members will need to discuss the future of the Manse, and vote on the minister's contract.

Eleanor Hutchinson and Julie Veysay have been spending some time here with their mother and grandmother, Louvie Coffin.

Howdy friends! This is Tuesday morning, July 2 and it looks like we are going to have another nice day. Most of last Monday was nice, but I can't say as I enjoyed it much, as I had to go for more blood tests.

Franklin Grange will be observing Ladies Night on July 15. Each officer is to get a lady to fill his or her office for the evening, and is to provide a gift for that person. They are also to have a selection for the program. There will be refreshments after the meeting.

Oxford Pomona Grange will be hosted by West Paris Grange on Aug. 6. There will be a salad and cold cuts supper and guests are to bring desserts.

The July 18 meeting of West Paris Grange is listed on the program as a 3-point meeting with a supper, but it will be a regular meeting with refreshments.

Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond is now making plans to have a Variety Show with refreshments on Friday, Aug. 9, at their Grange Hall. As you know from the past variety shows, this will be a good show, displaying many talents of the most unusual nature. So make your plans to attend this show.

Bobby and Irene Miller, from Jacksonville, Fla., visited with the Lovejoy family last week.

Jim and Jean Hutchins from Bethel made a dooryard visit at the Lovejoy home on Tuesday.

Visitors at the Lovejoy home on Wednesday were Charmaine Penley and Marcia Baxter. They also received a call from Glen Virge, of Panama City, Fla., telling them that it was 109 degrees and humid. He wanted to change places with them.

Friday, Audrey and Howard Miller were leaving for Florida.

Kathleen Holden called to visit Mary Lovejoy on Thursday.

Mary Lovejoy attended a baby shower for Julie Brett at the Holden home on Sunday.

Last Tuesday, Peggy decided she'd like to have a home permanent, so she called her daughter Myrna in Auburn. Myrna and Whitey stayed for a short visit and dinner, but Whitey was anxious to get back to do more painting.

We attended the supper and meeting of Oxford Pomona Grange, hosted by Pleasant Valley Grange of West Bethel. We had a very nice supper and an interesting meeting and program.

Bethel Selectmen's Meetings

On weeks in which the Bethel selectmen meet (usually the weeks of the first and third Mondays in the month) the meetings will be televised on Channel IV. The broadcasts will normally be at 7 p.m. on Friday, but schedule modifications will occasionally be necessary, so please check the on-air calendar for up-to-date information.

Broadcast of the selectmen's meeting is a cooperative effort of Channel IV and The Bethel Citizen.

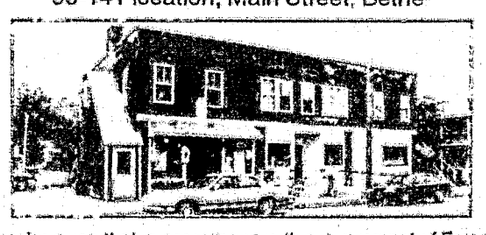
REAL ESTATE FORECLOSURE
AUCTIONS 96-141/142

Pursuant to 14 M.R.S.A. ss 6323
96-141 - COMMERCIAL/APARTMENT BUILDING MAIN STREET, BETHEL, MAINE
96-142 - 2.2+ ACRES OFF OLD COUNTY ROAD, GREENWOOD, MAINE
Friday, August 16, 1996 at 2 p.m.

*Auction of both properties to be conducted from the 96-141 location, Main Street, Bethel



NOTICE is hereby given that in accordance with a Judgement of Foreclosure and Order of Sale dated April 3, 1996 and entered in the action entitled Bethel Savings Bank, F.S.B. vs. Brian J. Strickland, which judgement was entered by the Superior Court for Somerset County, Docket No. CV-96-03, and wherein the Court adjudged a foreclosure of two mortgage deeds granted by Brian J. Strickland, each dated December 14, 1989 and recorded in the Oxford Registry of Deeds in Book 1705, Page 43, and Book 1705, Page 48, respectively, the period of redemption from said judgement having expired, a public sale will be conducted on August 16, 1996 commencing at 2:00 p.m. at the property site on Main Street in Bethel, Maine. Reference should be had to said mortgage deeds for a more complete legal description of the properties to be conveyed.

96-141 - Commercial/Apartment Building, Main St., Bethel: real estate consists of an approximate .34 acre parcel with approximately 77 feet of frontage on Main Street. The site is improved with a 2 story masonry and wood-framed commercial building designed with an approximate 1,993 s.f. of office with a loading dock and platform, an approx. 740 s.f. retail area and an approx. 500 s.f. area utilized as a barber shop. The second floor is designed with 4 apartments, (3) 2 bedrooms, and (1) 1 bedroom each with a living room, dining area, kitchen and full bath. The property is reportedly assessed by the Town of Bethel at $240,300 at 100% valuation, reference Map 25, Lot 51-1. Deposit to Bid: $10,000.

96-142 - 2.2+/- Acres off the Old County Road, Greenwood: real estate consists of an approximate 2.2 acre parcel accessed by a graveled right-of-way. The site has views of the western mountains and is sloping in topography. The property is reportedly assessed by the Town of Greenwood at $8,600 at 100% valuation, reference Map R7, Lot 23. Deposit to Bid: $2,500

Open House: Buyer's Prospectus for 96-142 (Greenwood) will be available at the 96-141 Bethel property on Friday, August 2, 1996 from 2 to 3 p.m.

WINONA F. CORRIVEAU

Winona Frances Corriveau, 65, of Gilead, died at the Seven Rivers Hospital, Crystal River, Fla., on June 30, 1996.

She was born in West Paris on Aug. 4, 1930, daughter of Wallace and Ella (Trembley) Russell and had lived in Gilead since her marriage to Rosaire Corriveau in 1948.

She was a member of Holy Family Church in Gorham, N.H.

Survivors include her husband of Gilead; three sons, Lawrence of New Gloucester, Michael of Waterford, and Neil of Oxford; four daughters, Cecelia Morrissette of South Paris, Teresa Cyr of Greene, Susan Corriveau of Rochester, N.H., and Rita Bates of West Lebanon; five sisters, Winiford Faulkner of Canton, Beverly Knight of South Paris, JoAnn Brown of Norway, Maxine Corriveau of Gilead, and Mary Neimi of Norway; 12 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; nieces, nephews and cousins. She was predeceased by a daughter, Diane Corrigan; a sister, Ivy Billings, and two brothers, Irving Russell and Edwin Russell.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 11 a.m. on Friday, July 12, at Holy Family Church in Gorham, N.H. Interment will be in the Holy Family Cemetery. Relatives and friends may call at the Bryant Funeral Home, 1 Promenade Street, Gorham, N.H., Thursday afternoon and evening from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9.

WILBUR H. CHENERY, JR.

Wilbur H. Chenery, Jr., 65, died Monday, July 1, 1996, at the Rumford Community Hospital, where he had been a patient the last two days.

A lifelong resident of the East Andover area, he was born in Andover on April 10, 1931, son of Wilbur H. and Mae Farrington Chenery. A high school graduate, he had attended Andover schools. During the Korean War, he received a Purple Heart while serving as a corporal in the Army. For a time he had worked for his uncle Lester Farrington at Farrington's Lumber Mill and in later years served as road commissioner for the Town of Andover for over 28 years. He retired, due to ill health, on June 25, 1996.

He was a member of Napoleon Ouellette Post 24, American Legion, Robert Shand Post 1641, VFW, Andover Volunteer Fire Department where he had served over 20 years, and was a communicant of St. Theresa Church.

He was married in East Andover on July 14, 1955, to the former Jeannette T. Longley, who survives of East Andover. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Mae Maddix of East Andover; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Vickie Cuff Sr. of East Andover, and Mrs. Raymond (Carrie-Lynn) Herrick Sr. of Rumford; one son, David and his wife Stacie Chenery of East Andover; two sisters, Mrs. Robert (Pearl) Elliott of Upper Dam, Richardson Lakes and Mrs. Ralph (Ruth) Sherwood of Black, Ala.; one half sister, Mrs. Ted (Bernice) Kehn of Houlton and Norway; one half brother, Sherman Maddix of East Andover; nine grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. He was predeceased by a son, Elwin H. Chenery, who died Dec. 26,1973.

Funeral services were held Friday, July 5 at 11 a.m. at the Calvary Congregational Church in South Andover, with the Rev. Duane Waite officiating. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover. Those who desire, please contribute to the Wilbur Chenery Fund, c/o Mrs. Jeannette Chenery, Box 25, East Andover, ME 04226.

RAY H. THURSTON

Ray Herman Thurston, 79, died in Rumford July 4,1996 at his home.

He was born July 24, 1916, the son of Herman and Arvilla Thurston on the Thurston homestead in Rumford. He received his education in the Rumford schools. He was then a salesman for Brackett and Shaw of Somersworth, N.H., selling farm equipment. After a few years he built a saw mill employing three or four men, and sold his lumber to L.C. Andrews, P.H. Chadbourne and local people. He was also associated with his father on the farm and the raising of Holestin cows for milk sold to H.P. Hood Co.plant in Rumford.

He had a large acquaintance of friends and always lived on the Thurston homestead, which was also known as "Sunnyside Farm," where the family had a tourist business and tearoom for many years.

Mr. Thurston is survived by a brother, Donald P. Thurston of Portland; and a sister, Evelyn T. Bean of Bryant Pond. He was predeceased by a brother, Bernard G. Thurston, who died in October 1969. Five nieces, and a nephew also survive.

Private family graveside services will be held Sunday, July 14, 1996, at 11 a.m. at the Rumford Center Cemetery, with the Rev. David Kimball officiating. Please omit flowers at his request. In lieu of flowers, donations to the Rumford Center Methodist Church in his memory may be sent to Mrs. Ann Kimball, Rumford Center, ME 04276.

RUBY C. EMERY

Ruby C. Emery, 87, died early Thursday, July 4, 1996 at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway.

She was born in West Sumner, July 26, 1908, daughter of Walter and Mary (Mamie) Mayhew Chandler. She married Guy E. Emery on June 6, 1931. He died July 26, 1973. She graduated as valedictorian from West Paris High School in 1926 and began her adult life as a teacher after graduating from Gorham Normal School.

She was an avid perennial gardener with an extensive collection on display at her home on the Gore Road, until her advanced age prevented its proper care. The plants moved on with anyone that would have them. Her life work was the preservation of local history. She was a member of Franklin Grange 124 and one of the founders of the Woodstock Historical Society.

Generations to come will benefit from her extensive research on Hamlin's Gore, the Thousand Acre Squadron, Gore A. Woodstock Schools, Franklin Grange History and the Crank Phones as well as her transcription of the work of diaries of earlier historians. Her work is preserved and displayed at the Woodstock Historical Society Museum and the Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond. Her family will pass on 14 generations of genealogical lore concerning Chandlers, Emerys and Cobbs.

Mrs. Emery leaves a mine of memories with her children, Mary Cobb and Walter Emery and their spouses James P. Cobb and Stephanie Emery; her grandchildren, Llewllyn Cobb, Rebecca Cobb, Lawrence, Preston W. Cobb, James A. Cobb, Leanne Emery Stevenson and Jeanette Emery Wilson; her great-grandchildren, Donna Lawrence, Miranda, Calla, Preston J., Mary, Elise, James R. and Trinisa Cobb and Sarah Stevenson; and her extended family, children, David and Jean Lawrence.

Funeral services were held Monday, July 8, at Andrews Funeral Home in Bryant Pond. Interment was at Wayside Cemetery in West Paris. Memorial donations may be made to the Woodstock Historical Society, c/o Kathleen Bean, 196 Gore Road, Bryant Pond, ME 04219, or Tri-Town Rescue Unit, West Paris, ME 04289.

JONATHAN P. BLANCHARD

Jonathan P. Blanchard, 67, of Bryant Pond, died Saturday, July 6, 1996, at Stephens Memorial Hospital. Born in Roxbury, Sept. 24, 1928, the son of John Peter and Mamie Mason Blanchard, he received his education at Roxbury and Rumford schools.

In his early years, Mr. Blanchard worked as a woodsman and then worked as a truck driver for Currier Trucking in Gorham, N.H., for 18 years, where he had a perfect driving record and received many safety awards.

After his retirement as a truck driver, he worked as a security guard at Gould Academy in Bethel. He was an avid gardener, farmer and woodsman. He enjoyed hiking, country western music, his black labrador Katie, and was famous at Gould Academy for taking care of all the local animals when the need arose.

Mr. Blanchard had resided in Bryant Pond for the past 16 years. He was married to the former Jean Carini Rowe on January 24, 1981. Besides his wife of Bryant Pond, he is survived by a stepdaughter, Bethany Dunham and her husband Brian; three grandchildren Jeremy, Amanda and Daniel Dunham; a foster son, Michael Moody and his wife Debbie of Poland.

Memorial services were held at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church. A private burial was held at Lakeside Cemetery in Bryant Pond.

In lieu of flowers, those who wish may make contributions in Jonathan's memory to the American Cancer Society Memorial Program, PO Box 456, Brunswick, ME 04011.

DANIEL W. TRIPP

Daniel W. Tripp, 85, of Ellingwood Road, West Paris, died Sunday evening, July 7, 1996, at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

He was born in Bridgton on Feb. 16, 1911, son of Samuel and Sarah Downing Tripp. He attended Catholic schools in Portland.

Mr. Tripp worked several years at C.B. Cummings Company in Norway and retired from A.C Lawrence Leathers in South Paris.

He loved nature, especially dogs. He was a Native American. He served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army during World War II in Germany and France. He married Mary Norton on July 18, 1948.

Survivors include his wife of West Paris; a son Daniel and his wife Joline of West Paris; a son Dennis of Gorham and his wife Juanita of Rhode Island; a daughter Mary Ann Guilford and her husband Larry of West Paris; one sister, Alta Edmunds of Canton; four grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by a son, Raymond; a brother, Alton Tripp; a half sister, Vangie Harding; a granddaughter, Shannon Tripp.

Graveside services will be held July 10 at 11 a.m. at Riverside Annex Cemetery, South Paris. In lieu of flowers those who wish may make memorial gifts in his memory to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, 424 East 92nd Street, New York, NY 10128.

EDITH N. RAYMOND

Edith N. Raymond, 85, of South Portland, formerly of Mechanic Falls, died Sunday evening, July 7, 1996, at her home.

She was born in Mechanic Falls on Sept. 1, 1910, daughter of Samuel E. and Lilas E. Harwood Nay. She attended school in Mechanic Falls and for a short time worked at Morrill's Market in Mechanic Falls. She was a homemaker most of her life.

She married Lawrence D. Raymond on July 8, 1929. He died on July 18, 1974.

Mrs. Raymond was a member of Dwinal Chapter Order of the Eastern Star in Mechanic Falls, and she enjoyed making scrapbooks. She had made her home in South Portland with her daughter Lorraine the last five years.

Survivors include two daughters, Lorraine Coggins and Mrs. Eugene (Ruth) Snyder Sr., both of South Portland; one son, Roger Raymond of San Francisco, Calif.; three sisters, Edna Newton, Mildred Cotton (formerly of Bethel) and Ella Jones, all of Mechanic Falls; one brother, Harold Nay of Mechanic Falls, six grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, July 10, at the Raymond/Weston-Chandler Funeral Home, 26 West Dwinal Street, Mechanic Falls, with interment in Maple Grove Cemetery. In lieu of flowers those who wish may make memorial gifts in her memory to the American Heart Association, P.O. Box 346, Augusta, ME 04330.

In Loving Memory of Capezio

Our beloved studio cat, who passed on to animal heaven to watch the angels dance. He will be sorely missed by the dance theater students most especially the teen dancers.
